Alfred

Hayden Taylor 5th

Once there was a friendly boy named Taylor Hayden. He was walking down the road one day and saw a duck driving a limo!!! He called the cops. They said the duck's name was Alfred, and he worked for a secret agent place called AFLAC.

Alfred was spying on a man named Jeff Henry. Jeff was a robber. If there was a bank, Jeff would always be there. Taylor saw Alfred jump out of the limo and chase Jeff. Jeff looked back and ran as fast as he could.

Taylor jumped into the limo and drove off down the road and saw the two still running. Jeff ran into a Wal-Mart. Taylor followed them in and saw them rolling down the hallway. The people screamed as they watched them.

Jeff didn't notice that his shoes were untied so he fell and injured his arms, legs, face, hands, and neck! Then Jeff somehow stood up and walked to the door. As soon as he stepped out of Wal-Mart, a Hummer came up and accidentally hit him. Jeff got sent to the E.R., and Alfred walked away.

When Taylor got home, he was reading the newspaper and saw Alfred in the newspaper. Alfred had saved the day!!

Penguin Mayhem

Alex Sanchez 5th

One day two penguins named Chip and Dip escaped from a zoo in Manhattan on April fools day. They broke the window of a car and stole it, and then Chip hot-wired it. The manager called the guards from the zoo to stop Chip and Dip, but the two penguins were quick witted and escaped to the ocean.

It had been days since anyone had seen Chip and Dip, but then three days later there were reports of two penguins robbing food and stealing cars at the mall. So the police sent their two best men on the force, Officer Reeses and Lieutenant Hershey.

When they got to the scene, Chip and Dip had jet packs trying to escape. Luckily, they ran out of fuel and fell. They got up quickly and dodged the two policemen.

The chase lasted for hours. Reeses and Hershey cornered them in the ice cream section of Wal-Mart. They took them back to the zoo. The young penguins were crying. Reeses and Hershey hope there will be no more mischief from those two penguins.

The Brave Spy

Payton Nance 5th

Once there was a kid that lived near the Alamo. His name was Robert, and he was eleven years old when the Texans started to fight the Mexicans. So the Texans thought he would make a good spy because the Mexicans wouldn't expect a kid to be spy. He gave the Texans all the Mexicans information.

One day Robert went to get information from the Mexicans. He went into Santa Anna's tent. He and Santa Anna talked about Santa Anna's plans. When Robert got all the information, he said good-bye and started toward the Alamo. Then Santa Anna asked him where he was going. Robert lied and said home. Santa Anna said a little boy shouldn't be walking in a battlefield. Santa Anna took Robert to his house and told his parents not to let him out because he might get killed. Robert's parents tried to make Robert stay in his room till the war was over.

The Texans started to wonder what was taking Robert so long. They stayed up the whole night because they had no idea if the Mexicans would attack. The next night at midnight, Robert snuck out his bedroom window, which was very hard because his bedroom was on the second floor and there were guards outside his house. But, luckily, Robert got out without being seen. He went to the Alamo and told the Texans that Santa Anna's plans were to attack on tomorrow at midnight. Then the Texans sent Robert home so he could be safe. They would send Robert to Santa Anna's tent again tomorrow to see if the plans were still the same.

When Robert was headed home. The Mexican guards had seen what he did and captured him. They took Robert to Santa Anna ant told Santa Anna what Robert did. Santa Anna was so angry he sent Robert to a room that was locked so he couldn't get out.

Robert over heard Santa Anna talking about a new plan the wouldn't attack at midnight they would attack at dawn. But Robert couldn't tell it to they Texans because he was locked in a room. The Texans wouldn't be ready in time, and all of them will die. When dawn came, he could hear the Mexicans attacking the Texans. He knew the Texans had lost because they weren't ready. He was let out of the room after the war at the Alamo was over, and he was sent home. He thought the Texans could have won the war if he could have given them that last information. The war could have ended in five days but since Robert did the brave move to spy for the Texans it lasted 13 days.

Case of the Mummy Mystery

Angie Evans 4th

Just last week I solved a terrifying case. Late in the day, the doorbell rang. As I opened the door, I was astonished to find Riley Stewart, a friend that I had known forever. I asked her, "Riley, what are you doing here? Did someone break into your house again?"

Riley told me, "No, but while I was in my yard, I suddenly smelled this horrible odor and heard a horrifying moan. Bubba, my brother, was so scared that he screamed like a baby without a bottle. A mummy showed up in our yard. It looked like a ghost."

It all seemed to fit. My first clue was the bad smell of "pig and corn pone deodorant." That left only one suspect, my Uncle Frank. Only Frank would wear the smell of pigs and corn pone to play a practical joke. I needed Riley to give me one more clue. "What day did the mummy appear," I asked. She said it was on April Fool's day. Our practical joker, Uncle Frank, had struck again.
