The Pirates Lost Treasure
Zane Ellis 5th

"Argg matey! Give me my treasure you scoundrel!"

"Never Captain Silverfish!"

"Lets track him down crew. Follow the man with the treasure. Pull down the lifeboat, we are going ashore. Bring a lot of gun powder for the guns. He might have a crew ashore ready to fight. Go find them and report back."

"Sir we have located there fort. Hurry because they are not ready."

"Get them, no prisoners wanted except for Captain Silverfish"

"Captain Silverfish what do we do."

"Fight back come on fight"

"Run Captain Silverfish's men are to strong. Give Captain Silverfish his treasure back and run."

"That's how you do it men now lets go back to the ship and live happily in peace!!!"

Super Chicken and his Long Lost Love
Karen Duran 5th

One day Super Chicken was taking the villain to jail. When he saw someone stealing an old lady's purse. So he went to stop the villain, but it was a trick. By a person he never saw a villain like that one before.

"Who are you and what do you want." Super Chicken asked. He couldn't see the person. He didn't know anything about the person.

"You don't remember me. We went to high school together. You took me out to the movies remember." The person said.

"Could it really be you, but why did you leave me all those years ago Maria." He said.

"I left because you got sick when you got hit by the radiant toxic waste and turned you powerful. I knew that you would be busy saving the world that you wouldn't have time for me." She said.

"But I do. I always have time especially for you. So come join the team." He said.

"I will after I let you go." She said. So they went to tell the others that she joined them on their quest to save the world. And they lived happily ever after. THE END.

The Lost Puppy
Brenna Warren 5th

Once there was a girl puppy named Lassie that had gotten lost running and playing in the forest. She tried not to panic, but she couldn't help it, so she screamed "MAMAAAAA", and unfortunately she woke up a badger that was taking his daily 5hour nap, and badger's aren't usually the nicest animals awake or not awake! The knew she was in trouble now because the badger was yelling coming out of his hole, "Who dares to awake me from my beauty sleep!"

The puppy started to run but it was almost like she was frozen still, and now the badger was right in front of her snarling! The badger said, "Since you're a little puppy and apparently lost I'll let you off with a warning to be quiet around here and since I probably can't go back to sleep anyway I'll help you get back to your home!"

The puppy was very excited to be with someone because it was getting dark and she was getting even more frightened than before, but now since she was with a slightly pleasant badger she felt safe.

They figured out where the puppy's home was, and the puppy's mom thanked the badger for helping her daughter find her way home, and the badger smiled and headed back to his home!

Vote For Mia
Kaylee Pickett 5th

One day in November 1945, the kids got the right to run for President. They also got to vote. A girl named Mia ran for president. She was out-voted, at first, but Thomas (the other candidate) had voted for himself, which was against the rules. So Mia won by disqualification.

The people sent in drawings on how her office should look. She chose one from her classroom in Walla Walla, Washington. It wasn't very big but still very cozy. Plus it was her favorite colors, blue and lime green. She quickly got people to design it. After it was finished, she hardly left her office.

Her least favorite part of being president was all the meetings. She had a meeting every other day. She was so tired when she got back she wasn't even able to read or watch TV, (that's very unusual for Mia). When she gets home from those meetings she just goes to sleep.

She hated to think that in four years she would be out of office.

"Mia it's time to get up!"

"What a wonderful dream." She said, "If only it could happen for real."

"Guess who won the president's job, YOU!"

"I guess dreams really do come true." She said, as she left for her office.

"Maybe it wasn't a dream after all she said as she entered her office. It was just like in her dream.

"Talk about Déjà vu." she whispered, and she began her four years as president.

Mustangs
Enna Carroll 5th

There are many mustangs in the United States. But many people do not understand how special they really are. There was a girl who thought Mustangs were just some stupid animals.

She lived in the United States with her parents and she never would believe them when they told her that horses where one of the smartest animals they ever knew of. She would just stare at them in a rude way until they stopped talking.

Her parents decided it was time to teach her what horses where really like. So one day they said they where going to go on a vacation so they got packed and started off. But then they stopped in the middle of nowhere. They said that they where going to camp there. The girl got out of the car and shut the door. As soon as she did her parents drove off.

The girl ran after them yelling as loud as she could but it was no use. She was very tired and she sat by a tree and started to cry. Then she heard a soft sound. She looked up and saw a beautiful paint Mustang. She gasped because she had never seen a horse in her whole entire life!

She stood there and just stared at the horse that was standing in front of her. She felt sorry about what she had said the horses where not smart. Then she saw her parent's car coming up the road. Her parents where glade she now realized how neat horses really where. She never said that horses where dumb again.

They camped that night any way and had a great time.

A Long Way from Home
Madison Hagood 5th

"Allison, Allison get up!

Hurry, we have to leave now!" Samantha Johnson called to her 10-year-old sleeping sister.

Her sister got up winning. "Sam I don't want to go to Organ. There is nothing there but trees and no nice homes to live in."

10 year old Allison Johnson and 14 year old Samantha (who liked to be called Sam) Johnson were planning to leave their pioneer family and go to Organ. Their parents were NOT going to go, so the two sisters were going on their own.

"Oh come on, Allison. It's going to be so much fun. We can live like outlaws, always on the run from our parents. Now, come on, we have to leave now. You know Peter and John will be up soon!" Sam cried. She got so mad when her sister had second thoughts.

The girls packed 2 suitcases full of, their own clothes and a pair of their brother's clothes, food, a bucket full of water, one of the cows "Old Betty" who would give them milk, and some of their favorite things. Allison brought her baby doll; and Sam brought her favorite book.

The girls went through the house quietly and were out the door, when they saw their two brothers Peter and John looking at them.

"Hey girlies! What do you think your doing up at 4:00? And what are those suitcases for? Are you going to Organ? You know Ma and Pa said no. You are going to get in so much trouble when they find out!" Peter said as he walked over to them.

"Well, we are running a way to Organ, but you can both come with us. If we run out of food, you can use your guns and shoot a rabbit or something for us to eat. We have the money to go, but we could use some more! Please some with us! Please!!" Sam said to Peter and John.
