100 days of school

Parker Dunn 3rd

I went to interview Mrs. Wilson and she is a first grade teacher. She is very nice and gave me information about what they are doing in the classroom for this month. On the first day of February, they celebrated the first 100 days of school. The students in her class were excited to do draw 100 jellybeans and then paint them using four different colors. Another they did was stand up and do 100 "punches."

Another activity her first grade was getting to do was to learn spelling words by writing them in shaving cream. The shaving cream also helps to clean desks. Still another activity they are working on is the study of addition and subtraction. They also read in groups and write about their day. They are a busy class—always learning.

I would like to thank Mrs. Wilson for letting me come and get information what they were doing student teacher. Her first day was January 11, and she is be with Mrs. Hicks until March 5, and then she will be working with Mrs. Crim, who is a second grade teacher. She wants to be a kindergarten teacher and will graduate in May 2010.

We welcome Ms. Dunn to our school.

The Secretary

Austin Hagood 3rd

Have you ever wondered who helps Mr. Stahnke? There is a very important person on staff, who helps him a lot. She is the school secretary. Her name is Bonnie Wallace. She is the lady who sits at the desk in the front office. She takes attendance, she helps out with parents who aren't happy, she does the yearbook and the website. She also helps Mr. Stahnke with other tasks.

Sometimes when my class has a substitute I get to go to the office and give Mrs. Wallace our attendance for that day. And that is what the secretary does.
