I think zebras have stripes because their enemies see in black and white and zebras are black and white. So they don't know whether if one or two zebras are standing side by side. Many things like pandas, monkeys, and penguins are black and white. I love zebras!

Zebras need zebra stripes because they need it for camouflage. I think zebras should keep their stripes so they can hide from other animals.

If I took a trip to china I would eat with chopsticks and I will make Fried Rice and make a lantern and ride a bicycle and a panda live for 10000 years.

I think zebras' stripes are for camouflaging because when lions or other animals come to hunt them they can camouflage themselves so the other animals can't find them. Zebra's stripes are black and white and pandas are black and white also. I like zebras because they are black and white.

I think zebras' stripes are great. White and black are the opposite colors. When it snows and falls on something black it looks like a zebra. A panda is black and white too. My favorite color is white and black. So I think zebras are very pretty.

If I took a trip to China I would go in a boat and I would see the mountains and would see pandas and I would see a leopard and I would see a man plowing with a cow and lots of people riding bikes.

If I go to China to live I will make an electric fence around my house and I would build something around my car so a policeman can't put me in jail. I will wear old clothes over my good clothes so I get in trouble when I go to the under ground church. I won't go to school because I won't understand the language and I will go to the principal's office. I wont be able to read the books. But I will eventually learn the language if I stay long enough.

I think zebras need stripes to blend in and to hide from predators, and even if they look like jailbirds, I don't know why there would be a reason for them to go to jail. So I believe they should continue to have those stripes.

What would you do if you were a MTV host? I would play all kinds of music. It would be fun. I would have a party. I would request songs. And shoot a lady through the floor. So it looks like I would be a pretty good host. It would be a great experience for me. One that the audience would never forget and I wouldn't either.

Karina D. 2nd

What if you were a MTV Host? If I were a host I would make a video song. It would be named "The Rock Break Dance Band", I would say "Welcome Friends and to all". I would be shy in the beginning but probably I would get over it. I guess the hardest thing would be to believe that I'm on TV.

Kaycee C. 2nd

I think that zebras have stripes for camouflage so other animals won't eat them so they don't show their big ears and so that when they go to put on a belt they already have it on. In fact, they have a lot of belts on

That's why I think zebras should wear stripes, even if they do have big ears.

If I went to China I would eat at a China Chinese restaurant. And order a bowl of rice. Next I would go shopping. After that I would go to the Great Wall of China. Then I would be the first to climb Mount Everest. And I would see a Panda. And I would stay for Chinese New year and I'd eat moon cakes. And I would make my own lantern. Plus I would buy a bike and watch the dragon dance. After that I'd go swimming in the East China sea, then I would ride on a boat in the third longest river in the world. Doesn't that sound like fun? It does to me.

I know why zebras have black and white stripes. Because lions, tigers, panthers, leopards, snow leopards and cheetahs see in black and white. And zebras get together and they look like a gigantic zebra. Big cats go after the smallest and weakest animal. When zebras take a drink it is easy prey for crocodilians, crocodiles and alligators to eat them. If there's any dead animal leftover after it has been had killed, it that is an invitation for scavengers.

So I think, for protection, zebras should keep their stripes.

Ranlee K. 2nd

This is why I think Zebras need stripes. Because, an animal that is in black and white and gray is hard to see because of their stripes. Zebras cannot be seen as well. This gives zebras time to run away from their enemies. And if zebras had to go to jail, they wouldn't have to change clothes. Of course, I don't know why zebras would have to go to jail. They may also probably use the stripes as a belt. I think Zebras should continue to wear stripes because they look good in them.

Saul L. 2nd

I think zebras need stripes because so they can keep warm in the winter. If they were in jail they don't need a suit because they already have one. I wish I was a zebra. I would look funny and cool. Do you like zebras? I do and I think they need stripes because when an animal attacks, it can hide. I like zebras, and think they should wear stripes.

Steven B. 2nd

What if you were a MTV host? I would do the "Moonwalk " and do the "Breakdown Dance". I will say "Welcome to MTV I'm your host Steven Bergmark." When it is over, I will say "So long from New York City". If a famous guest comes, I'll say to do a challenge. Whoever is the fastest runner on that game against the famous guest and the runner has to run around Town Square. Who ever finishes the race wins $10,000. I think I will be the greatest MTV host ever. What do you think? I know whom. It is I!

Tonna S. 2nd

I think zebras need stripes to be camouflaged so that they can hide from mean animals. There is one other reason why I think they need stripes. I think the stripes make them look very pretty. Also if they didn't have stripes, they might look too fat. Their stripes look like belts. Another great idea is if they went to jail they wouldn't have to put on a black and white shirt. They already have it on. Looks like there might be many reasons that zebras have stripes.
